Nature-Reserve Charlottenhofer Weihergebiet

Nearly two years after my first activation of this area and no more activity from there thought it's time to go again to give out the counter for some new collectors. The area is easy reachable for me in less than one hour as it's located nearby the fast-track to Regensburg near the city of Schwandorf. The nature-reserve has a size of 861 ha and was elected in 1989 as an important breeding-area for water-birds and classified in IUCN-cathegory IV.

Location beside Räuberholz-Weiher

In the latest 2012-activity made about 350 contacts from here. The first hour went well. First station in the log was Michael DF3IS. On 40 meter there was a high interest. However then it was like somebody has pulled out the plug. We had no cluster-connection inside the wood. So changed several times between 40 and 20 meters. So after various attempts we decided to put down the station and move to our next planned destination to a castle in DLFF-098. Altogether we made 154 contacts, mainly on 40 meters in 75 minutes.
